Protect Environmental Announces Milestone in Mission to Build and Maintain Healthy, Safe and Sustainable Communities Across the Metro Salt Lake City Area

Radovent, a Protect Environmental Company, to complete brand transition as part of the company's plan to expand service area in key national market

Louisville, KY, February 23, 2023 – Today, Louisville-based Protect Environmental announced the upcoming brand transition of its Salt Lake City-based operation, Radovent. The local operation will assume the Protect Environmental brand in March completing its integration into one of the largest environmental consulting and construction companies in the United States. The transition marks another milestone in Protect Environmental's growth strategy to expand its scale and solidify its presence in key markets across the country.

"Joining Protect Environmental has better positioned us to expand our capacity in Utah to continue to provide trusted radon and vapor intrusion solutions for keeping our communities safe from exposure to harmful indoor contaminants," said Jeremy Porter, Director, Market Operations for Protect Environmental and former Director, Operations for Radovent. "Partnering with Protect Environmental has unlocked the next chapter in our story, and we couldn't be more excited to be a part of Team Green."

Having served Salt Lake City and the greater state of Utah since its founding in 2007, including its expansion to the Chicago, IL market, Radovent will continue to provide the same expert radon and vapor intrusion services now under the Protect Environmental brand.

"Radovent has a history of providing expert radon and vapor intrusion services in the communities it serves, making it a key partner in our mission to build and maintain healthy, safe, and sustainable indoor environments across the country," said Kyle Hoylman, CEO of Protect Environmental. "The level of care for the communities it serves is evident in the many years of providing quality service, and we are excited that our paths have merged under the Protect Environmental brand."

Those in the Salt Lake City area and throughout the greater state of Utah in need of radon or vapor intrusion services can contact the Salt Lake City office by visiting ProtectEnvironmental.com or calling (801) 258-9255.
