Protect Environmental Announces Milestone in Mission to Build and Maintain Healthy, Safe, and Sustainable Communities Across the Denver Metro Area

ACE Radon and Reliant Radon Solutions to complete brand transition as part of Protect Environmental's plan to expand service area in key national market

Louisville, KY, March 15, 2023 – Today, Louisville-based Protect Environmental announced the brand transition of its recently acquired Denver-based ACE Radon and Reliant Radon Solutions operations. The local operations will assume the Protect Environmental brand in March, completing their integration into one of the largest environmental consulting and construction companies in the United States. The transition marks another milestone in Protect Environmental's growth strategy to expand its scale and solidify its presence in key markets across the country.

"More than 50% of the homes in Colorado have toxic indoor radon levels above the EPA recommended action level of 4.0 picocuries," said Terry Kerwin, Director, Market Development for Protect Environmental and former owner of Reliant Radon Solutions. "We are excited by the increased opportunity and capacity to provide safe and sustainable solutions under the Protect Environmental brand as we continue to build and maintain healthy indoor spaces in our communities together."

"With a combined 74-year legacy the expanded operation makes us the largest, most experienced, soil gas contractor in the state of Colorado," said Jeff Goard, Colorado Managing Partner for Protect Environmental and founder of ACE Radon. "It has been 35 years since we pioneered radon testing and mitigation services in the Denver area, and we are excited by the increased opportunity this transition will open as we forge a new path forward, together."

Having served the Denver region for decades, ACE Radon and Reliant Radon Solutions will continue to provide the same expert radon and vapor intrusion services under the Protect Environmental brand.

"ACE Radon and Reliant Radon Solutions both have rich histories providing expert radon and vapor intrusion services in the communities they serve, making them key partners in our mission to build and maintain healthy, safe, and sustainable indoor environments," said Kyle Hoylman, CEO of Protect Environmental. "The level of care for the communities they serve is evident in the many years of providing quality service, and we are excited that our paths have merged under the Protect Environmental brand."

Those in the Denver area and throughout the greater state of Colorado in need of radon or vapor intrusion services can contact our Denver offices by visiting ProtectEnvironmental.com.
